here this afternoon from Japan, in the American mail steamer City of Peking.

THE Government Astronomer reports:fallen in the North. The temperature has fallen; the humidity has increased. The typhoon is at present between Shanghai and Nagasaki, and is moving N.E.-wards. It appears to be followed by thunderstorms.

WE believe another private of the Buffs. died at Kowloon yesterday or last night He was buried early this morning. He was one of the five or six men who were too ill to be moved from the camp when the companies quartered there were transferred to

THE inquest on the body of Charles Blancpied, a seaman belonging to the American Civil Hospital, on the 22nd instant, from injuries sustained while engaged working on board the vessel, was concluded this forenoon when the jury returned a verdict that death resulted from injuries received through the sudden falling of the starboard anchor, from what cause there was not sufficient evidence to show.

THE chartered British transport Hankow left here this morning for Home, taking a number of military and navel invalid and time-expired men, and a number of officers. Among the officers who have taken pasage in her are Captain Somerset and Liest. Vyvyan, both of whom go on leave. Captain Somerset is accompanied by Mrs Somerset and children. Among the other passengers are Sergeant Houghton, of the R.A., and his wife and family; and Sergeant Brewer, with his wife and family.

WE are glad to be able to state that Mr | Stewart-Lockhart, has been forwarded to I. P. Madar, who was shot recently by an us for publication :ex-Indian policeman, has now sufficiently THE DISTRESS IN THE UPPER BAM SHUL AND recovered from his wounds to be allowed to leave the Government Civil Hospital, where he has remained since the time of the shooting until yesterday. The bullet which penetrated his chest has not yet been removed, but we believe Mr Madar suffers no inconvenience from its presence in his body. The case in which Ameer Khan is charged with attempting to murder Mr Madar will come on at the Police Court on Monday next.

L'Unité Indo-Chinoise states that the health of the expeditionary corps in Tongking has not in any way improved. At the present time there are more than 2,000 sick in the different hospitals. As it is considered that the consumption of absinthe, generally adulterated, introduced into the country has been one of the principal causes of the sickness and mortality amongst the troops, General Courcy has issued a decree orderthat no absinthe whatever shall be sold in Tongking and Annam. Anyone who sells any of the liquor after the date of the order will be proceeded against and their establishment closed. Facilities will be offered the merchants and others now holding stocks of the prescribed liquor to reexperiit at once, the duties paid upon it to be returned to the owners. Fifteen days are allowed to residents of Haiphong. Thuanan and Quinhon to clear out their stocks and one month to the residents of all other places in the country.

WE learn from the Hanoi journal, L'Avenir du Toiquin, that the flotilla which convey ed General Courcy and his troops to Hué left Haiphong on the 1st July. It was com posed of the Plurier, on board which the General and his staff took passage, the gunbosts Hugon, La Nièvre, Le (hasseur, Le Brandon, and five other boats.

from head quarter., Hanoi, by order of General Courcy, contains the following account of the hostilities between the Annamites and the French troops at Hue:-During the night of the 5th July, our troops at Hae were, without provocation. made the object of a most unequal attack from all the troops of the Regents bombrdment of their quarters they defended themselves from their assailants until daybroak, and then, taking the offensive, but the Annamites to flight. THE FLOODS IN KWANGTUNG The following report, furnished to

LOWER T'SENG UN DISTRICTS. 1 .-- As regards the area over which severe destitution prevails— Above the town of So Pau, on the righ bank of the river (going northward) is an extensive plain, much of which being lower than the bed, afforded great facilities of irrigation and was in consequence fertile and thickly populated. The plain varies in width from 4 to 12 miles, and the length of the submerged part from North to South cannot be less than 60 miles. Near the foot of the mountains the land dips slight ly, and here the worst effects of the flood are seen. Most of the villages are in ruins. the crops lost, and in many places so entire is the change which the land has undergone that it would seem impossible to recover the ground for cultivation. On the left side of the river the fields are higher, the embankments fewer and the destruction of houses and villages in the lower part of the valley less complete, though on both sides of the river the crops have perished. 2.—The extreme poverty of the people is more than ever apparent. The land is no longer flooded and more than a month has gone by since the waters retired from the higher grounds on which most of the villages stood. Yet only in five or six places had the people commenced to rebuild. They certainly would not remain without houses of some kind if they could find means to build; and it is a sad fact, which speaks for itself, that thousands remain

-3.—It is specially noticeable that whilst the distant villages have suffered most they have received less relief than those near the river. All, distant and near alike, send men to look out for provision boats and conduct relief parties to the villages, but the rice distribution, whilst those further off have only a slender chance of getting their wants supplied. General Grant, the distinguished soldier and prominent American politician, has a last succumbed to the terrible disease with which his life had been threatened for some years. It was thought by his medical advisers that he would linger on slive until September, but he has been relieved from his fearful sufferings sooner than was expected. During his illness, the great General displayed the most cheerful resignation and bore his heavy load with the heroism of a true soldier. The two armies moved early in May, and, after a series of hard-fought battles, alternating with repeated flanking movements, which the skill and tact of Gen. Lee rendered abortive. Gen. Grant crossed the James River, between the 12th and 15th of June. 1864, and proceeded to lay siege to Rich mond and Petersburg from the north and north-east, while a very considerable army was cutting off their supplies, and destroying their railroads at the south and southwest. At length one railroad after another having been cut, and the two cities of Richmond and Petersburg reduced to great straits, while the army of Gen. Lee was rapidly diminishing, the last line was broken on April 2, 1865, and Les and the remnant of his army fled westward, pursued by Grant. On the 9th of April, 1865, Lee suridered with his entire command to Grant at Appointatox Court House, Virginia. The surrender of the other armies, North Carolina, Alabama, and Texas followed soon after, and the war ended After its close the gratitude of the people to Gen. Grant found expression in numerous and valuable gifts. On July 25, 1866, Congress having created the grade of General of the Army, hitherto unknown in the army of the United States, he was commissioned General the same day, and Major-GeneralSherman promoted to be Licutenant General. Differing in his views from President Johnson, whose policy had alienated very many of his former friends, a coolness sprang up between the President and the General; this was aggravated by the attempted removal of Secretary Stanton by the President, and still further by the nomination of Grant for the Presidency by the Republican party in May, 1868, and from that time till the close of Mr John. son's term of office, in March, 1869, their only intercourse was official. Gen. The Democratic National Convention also nominated Mr Greeley, although he had always been a strong opponent of the Democratic party. At the Presidential election held in Nov., 1872, Grant received 268 electoral votes, and Greeley 80. But reckoning by the actual votes cast for each candidate, the election was much more close. The whole number of votes cast was 6,431,149; of these there were for Grant 3,597,070, for Greeley 2,834,079; giving for Grant a majority of 762,991. Mr Greeley died Nov. 29, 1872, just after the result of the election was evident. During the second administration of President Grant, grave difficulties arose, growing mainly out of financial questions and the disturbed condition of the South. The elections held in the autumn of 1874 resulted generally in of the Democratic party, who secured a majority in the Congressional House of Representatives, which convened in Doc., 1875, while the hitherto large Republican majority in the Senate was greatly diminished. Still Grant was by many considered the strongest candidate whom the Republicans could present at the next Presidential term. But it has come to be a usage, almost equivalent to positive law. that no person shall be made President for more than two quadrennial terms, and Grant was not formally pressed for a renomination. Soon after the expiration of his term, on March 4, 1877, he set out

PRINCESS BEATRICE'S TROUSSEAU Have you any curiosity about the sort of trousseau a Princess has? I have seen the sketches and materials of some of Princess Beatrice's trousseau frocks, which are being made by Redfern. One is a very pretty brown and blue shot-tweed, with silk match. The shirt is of the latter, and is arranged in wide perpendicular pleats. The bodice and tunic are of the tweed, the front of the bodice being trimmed with folds of the silk, arranged fichu-fashion. A pretty little jacket to go with this gown is made of the tweed, lined with peacock-colored satin and trimmed with the shot-silk down the fronts, which are straight, though the back fits tightly to the figure.

Another nice frock is of grenat blanket cloth, the long wide pleats on the skirt being separated by folds of Ottoman silk in the same color. There is also a vest of the Ottoman, the bodice and scarf drapery being of the cloth. A jacket is made to accompany this freck, the material being the blanket cloth. It fastens from the left shoulder and is trimmed round all the outlines with fine sable.

A gown of navy-blue cloth is cut out in scallops, which fall over a trimming of interlaced cardinal red braid. A similar but narrower trimming edges the tunic. which is quite short. The fronts of the bodice are scalloped over a vest of interlaced red braid and the sleeves are finished at the cuffs to match.

The jacket corresponding with this is or navy cloth, edged with one row of cardinal braid. A revers, turned back at the side of the chest, is lined with red silk, and a smaller revers, turned back at the right side of the basque, shows a similar lining. A cream-colored cloth is made ever akirt of pale blue veiling, being quite plain, except for a narrow pleating around the edge. The bodice of this fastens diagonally from the left shoulder by means of carved mother-of-pearl buttons. The vest and ouffa are pale blue. Another cream-colored dress is of Cairo cloth, with pleated skirt and scarf-like tunic, made of cream-colored satio. The bodice of this gown is pleated and worn with a belt. — Truth.

Bryson, of the London Mission, Wuchang, Ghina. With many illustrations. London, 1885. Published by the Religious Tract Society,

Although this book deals with Child Life read by or to the young, yet the writer had i such an attentive and observant eye, and the peculiar characteristics of Chinese Child Life, and combines with it all such literary skill in sketching life and painting character to the life, that we feel certain, no grown-up person, even among old residents. in the East, can possibly fail to find in this book many most interesting and perfectly original observations on the subject of Chinese Child Life, set forth in a manner charming to most minds by the atter absence of affectation and unreality. The story of Child Life, here told, is full of sadness and vet relieved by a breath of hopefulness penetrating the whole and by a continual accompaniment of subtle and keen reflection that lights up the style with a sort of Chinese lantern illumination. Even the illustrations, which accompany the letterpress sketches of Chinese Child Life, display a great deal of originality in the selection of themes, though the task of producing some thing new and fresh, in the way of illustrations of social life, is, in these days of cheap photography, a specially difficult one. The authoress begins by describing the various ceremonies and superstitions, crowding round the earliest events in the life of a Chinese baby. The dodges resorted to with a view to bamboozio malignant spirits are described with much humour. The authoress here, as throughout her whole book, writes almost entirely on the basis of actual personal observations made by herself in Wuchang. Nevertheless almost every single detail of these curiosities of nursery life, observ. ed in Wuchang, may be noticed daily among the Chinese of Hongkong and Canton, and, we dure say, in every nook and corner of the eighteen provinces of Chian : so great is the homogeneity of the various Chinese races. The vexed question of Chinese infunticide is dealt with in a simple and practical way. the authoress being evidently of opinion that infanticide in China is confined to female children and that it is practised only at the moment of birth, The old hackneyed story of 'the baby tower, ercoted outside most cities' is repeated. had it not been for your medicine she would We have no doubt such towers must be have been now dead. -- Yours, &c., though we have curselves passed through many cities in South-China without ever seeing or hearing of the existence of one, but we think the question of the actual extent of the area within which such baby towers are found deserves investigation. The descriptions of the baby's home, of the sights to be seen in streets and shops, of the life in school and on the play grounds, contain a good deal of most interesting reading matter. The various games played by Chinese boys are sufficiently explained and the reader is here initiated into the delightful mysteries of 'catching shrimps' (a sort of hopscotch), turning the dragon, and of the lion playing with the ball, not to forget Punch and Judy, battledore and shuttleoock and kiteflying. period of eight years I suffered from a Girls' life at home is very pathetically de- sovere cough and indigestion, with frequent scribed and the profound sense of blank and lattacks of rheumatism; and for eleven emptiness, the weary sighs and feelings of | months I was under medical treatment, the littleness of Chinese female life, are without deriving the slightest benefit. There is only one chapter in the book which has not been written from actual observation, viz. a most interesting description of some stories in popular circulation as regards the two boy-emperors of China, Tungchi and Kwangsui. For some of our readers the following quotation may contain something of the charm of novelty. Some time ago, in the pages of the Peking Gazette, the appointment of a "whipping boy" was announced, that is, a little fellow whose duty it was to receive all the punishments which might be deserved by the little Emperer when he committed a fault. pronouncing it scandalous. It appears that a Mrs. King had been suffering for many years with some disease of the stomach which had resisted the treatment of all the physicians in attendance. The disease commenced with a slight dorangement of the digestion, with a poor appetito, followed by a peculiar indescribable distress in the stomach, a feeling that has been described as a faint 'all gone' sensation, a sticky slime collecting about the teeth, causing a dis- Dubon Frères & de Gernon & Co,'s agreeable taste, especially in the morning. This sensation was not removed by food, but on the contrary, it was increased. The eyes then became tinged with yellow, and were sunken. After awhile the hands and feet became cold and sticky—a cold perspiration. There was a constant tired and languid feeling. Then followed a dreadful nervousness, with gloomy forebodings. When rising suddenly there came a dizzy feeling like vertige. After a time the bqwels became costive, so that it was difficult to procure a movement without a spit up the food after eating, sometimes in a sour, fermented condition. All this derangement caused a terrible palpitation of the heart, so as to make the breathing difficult. Finally, the patient was unable to retain any food whatever, and there was Child Life in Chinese Homes, By Mrs. constant pain in the abdomen. The patient did not have a cancer. When too late, the medical men discovered that they had made a terrible mistake. They sewed the parts together and dressed the wound that they had made, but the porwoman sank from exhaustion and died in a few hours. . How sad it must be for the husband of this poor woman to know that his wife died from the effects of a surgical operation that ought never to have been performed. If this woman had taken the proper remedy for dyspepsia (for this i what the disease really was), she would have been living to-day. Seigel's Curative Syrup, a remedy made expressly for dyspepsia or indigestion, has restored many such cases to perfect health after all other kinds of treatment have failed. The evideace of its efficacy in curing this class of cases is too voluminous to be published here, but those who read the publishers evidence in favour of this dyspeptic remedy do not question its convincing nature; and the nearest place of business. 3. Boxholders who desire to send Circulars, Dividend Warrants, Invitations, Cards. &c., all of the same weight, to addresses in Hongkorg, Bangkok, or the Ports of China, may deliver them to the Post Office unstamped, the postage bong then charged to the senders at the Each batch must consist of at least an 4. Boxholders may also send Patterns to the same places in the same way Envelopes containing Patterns may be wholly closed, if the nature of the contents be first exhibited or stated to the Postmaster General, as he may consider necessary, and approved by him. Printed Circulars may be inserted in such Pattern Packets.

PARCEIS.—The public is reminded that there is no such thing as Parcel Post to Europe, &c. Much trouble and disappointment are caused by persistent attempts to send small valuable trifles through the Post. Fans, Curios, Articles of Dress, Fancy Work, and similar presents are continually being refused, the serders having often spent more in Postage than would have paid the freight by steamer. refund can be made on such parcels of the value of Stamps obliterated before the nature of the contents was discovered.

Local and Indian Parces Past 1. Small Parcels may be sent by Post at Book Rates between Hongkong and any of the British Post Offices in China, as well as to Japan, Macao, Pakhoi, the Straits not exceed the following dimensions, 2 feet long, I foot broad, I foot deep, weigh more than 5lbs., nor be smaller than 3 in. by 2 in. person not in the employment of the Flynn, W. Hongkong Post Office. 5. No compensation can be paid for mere damage to fragile articles such as portraits, watches, handsomely bound books, &c. which reach their destination, although in a broken or deteriorated condition.

Missed or Delayed Correspondence.

When correspondence has been missent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to - , or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.
